

Resolutions of Respect.

On December the 23, 1891, God in his infinite wisdom sent His messenger of death and called Bro. C. T. Elam, from this world of pain, to the world that is "made without hands."

Bro. Elam was born in Virginia Dec. 1st, 1848, and came to Chariton county several years ago. On June the 19th, 1873, he was united in marriage to Miss Annie Brooks, of Chariton county, from which union four children were born to them.

Shortly after his marriage he set on his farm, about 2 1/2 miles south of Pee Dee, where he continued in the pursuit of farming, until but a few months previous to his death, he engaged in the mercantile business at Guthridge Mills, which pursuit he followed until the time of his death.

Bro. Elam was sick but a short time, first taken with a severe attack of la grippe, which in a few hours run into pneumonia, and died in about three days from his first sickness.

Bro. Elam was a faithful member and worker of the F. & L. U., No. 1304, at Pee Dee, in good standing and listened to by all members when he had anything to say in the lodge. This union feels the loss of his services as a member, and they as one unit, extend their heart-felt sympathies to the loving wife and bereaved children.

While one of our best workers, one of our most honest and kind friends, and one who was a neighbor indeed, has by the will of God been taken from us, all that we can say now, in this hour of our deepest sorrow, is, to wipe away your tears, dear kindred of the deceased, and let us console ourselves, though one of our most loved ones has left us, let us live on with the hope, that it is only for a short time at the longest, for:

Death is but life to a true believer,
For 'tis not the first, nor the last,
But the day of some bright future,
For when gained 'tis never lost.

Why then should we grieve for our loved ones?
When they have passed that great bridge—death,
For when once transported across,
They are forever at rest.

Mourn not, dear friends, for those that have crossed,
That bridge which is dreaded so much,
But go and prepare for the journey yourself,
And be sure you are ready to cross.

Let us make sure that the bridge is all sound,
When on the approach we survey the whole ground,
Say good-bye to those we leave behind,
And good-morning to those that are living beyond.

Charles W. Kavanaugh died on Wednesday, Dec. 2nd, 1891, at his residence, near Pee Dee, Chariton county, Mo., after a week's illness of pneumonia.

Deceased was in his 78th year. He was a native of Madison county, Ky., and moved to Moniteau county, Mo., in 1834. He was married to Miss E. W. Brisco, of same county, Nov. 1st, 1836, of which union eleven children were born, six of whom are still living. Mrs. Kavanaugh died May 22nd, 1862.

He again married in 1863, the bride being Miss Mary Clinton, of Morgan county, Mo., she dying Oct. 14th, 1870. He was married again Jan. 29th, 1878 to Mrs. Emiline White, of Macon county, Mo., who still survives him.

Brother Kavanaugh was a member of the Missionary Baptist church for about fifty years of his life, and he it said of him he was a faithful Christian and lived up to his profession of faith in his Savior. His walk and conduct before the world was that of an humble Christian, who had an unfeigned belief in one true and living God, and we trust he is not dead, but only sleeping, and has only gone to receive a righteous man's reward.

Brother Kavanaugh was an honored member of Pee Dee union of F. & L. U. No. 1304; believed in the farmer's course, and he it said of him he was an exemplary citizen in all the walks of life and we extend to the bereaved widow and children of our deceased brother our sympathy and our prayers, and trust that we may also live and act in this life that when we come to die all will be well with us, and we be permitted to join hands with loved ones, who before us have gone to that home of eternal rest prepared for the weary pilgrim.

Resolved, that the foregoing be published in the Salisbury Democrat, CHARITON COURIER, and Journal of Agriculture, and a copy furnished the widow of the deceased.
